MCDA also held a Federal Funding and Legislative Panel Discussion at the Augusta Civic Center during the convention. Representatives from the Maine Congressional Delegation provided updates on the 2018 Proposed Budget known as America First: A Budget Blueprint to Make America Great Again. The proposed budget calls for significant changes to discretionary funding programs.

Congresswoman Chellie Pingree's field representative, Pam Trinward, reported that the 2018 budget is in limbo. Conversations will begin again in December to pass a budget. Congresswoman Pingree offered an amendment that would undo the proposed elimination of the TIGER grant program, a $100 million cut to the CDBG program, a $100 million cut to the HOME Investments Partnership Program, and also offered an amendment to increase funding for the Housing Choice Voucher Program by $1.2 billion to a total of $19.9 billion. Other proposed reductions/eliminations include –

- 30% cut in the Brownfields Program was proposed, but Congress rejected the proposed cut and requested the program funding to continue at least at the current 2017 level.
- The Community Development Financial Institute (CDFI) budget of only $14 million was proposed, but the House passed a $190 million budget for FY 2018, which is a decrease over FY 2017. The Senate has not yet voted on this budget.

- Congress is working to continue the Northern Border Regional Commission (NBRC) funding at the same level funding as last year.

Mark Winter, Senator Susan Collins' State Office Representative in the Augusta Office, provided an overview of the procedural process of presenting a bill to Congress, main function of the legislative branch and the executive branch, and term of office for U.S. Senators. There are no term limitations for Senators. An important fact he, as well as other representatives, stressed was that congressional representatives are not political people, they are constituents to help people in Maine.

Ben Tucker is one of U.S. Senator Angus S. King's regional representative also stressed that they are regional representatives that act as the "eyes and ears" on the ground. They provide weekly updates to their delegation regarding issues in Maine to keep them connected at the local level.

Congressman Bruce Poliquin's staff assistant is USN retired Timothy Gallant. Mr. Gallant primarily works for veterans and municipalities. Frequently they receive calls from constituents that concern issues at the state level, and not necessarily the federal level. These are issues that representatives are unable to assist with, but they do refer to state staff that can answer their concerns. He emphasized that Maine has four federal delegations and each work as a team putting Maine citizens first.

"The generosity of our partners allowed us an increased pool of funds that was large enough to help all three businesses," said SADC Executive Director Jon McLaughlin. He continued saying, "as deliberations continued, the committee rallied around the opportunity to assist all three well-deserving contestants in an impactful way. They each had their strengths and weaknesses, but overall the rankings were quite even.”

HUBZONE DESIGNATION OPENS NEW POSSIBILITIES FOR AROOSTOOK BUSINESSES; FREE WORKSHOP OFFERED

AROOSTOOK COUNTY — Businesses in Aroostook County now have another tool to grow their sales. The federal government recently announced a change in the Small Business Administration's (SBA) Historically Underutilized Business Zone (HUBZone) program, which should benefit northern Maine.

"The recently updated HUBZone Map now has all of Aroostook County in a qualified HUBZone," said Amy Bassett, District Director of Maine SBA. "While we understand the challenges Aroostook county small businesses are facing, we want to seize on the opportunity and benefits that the HUBZone program presents and help stimulate the region's economy by getting federal contracts flowing to eligible small businesses. The HUBZone Program can help with that, and by working with SBA and Maine Procurement and Technical Assistance Center (PTAC) counselors to apply, Maine small businesses will receive quicker decisions from SBA's HUBZone Program office."

The Historically Underutilized Business Zones program was enacted into law as part of the Small Business

Reauthorization Act of 1997. The program encourages economic development in historically underutilized business zones through the establishment of preferences. Those preferences to HUBZone qualified companies include competitive and sole source contracting, 10 percent price evaluation preference in full and open contract competitions, as well as subcontracting opportunities and the federal government has a goal of awarding three percent of all dollars for federal prime contracts to HUBZone-certified small businesses.

"The HUBZone program can help drive job growth and economic investment in Aroostook County because certified HUBZone businesses must have their principal office located in a HUBZone and at least 35 percent of their employees must reside in the HUBZone," said NMDC Executive Director Robert Clark. "NMDC will be happy to help any business that would like to become HUBZone certified."

To learn more about the HUBZone designation, contact Dana Delano at ddelano@nmdc.org or by calling (207) 521-1713.

The findings of the study indicated that the density of land development in the Bath downtown contributes to disproportionately high pollutant loadings to the Kennebec River during storm events when compared to natural land cover and the entire Kennebec drainage area. The study also considered sea-level rise scenarios for the year 2050 and 2100. Based on storm simulations, flooding will increase in frequency and intensity such that a w-year storm in 2050 has the same effect as a 10-year storm at the current sea level. Ransom recommended that the City of Bath establish a stormwater utility to collect fees based on impervious areas and fund stormwater quality improvement projects. Ransom also recommended establishing stormwater quality goals of treating the first inch of precipitation in the study area and reducing the effective impervious area of the downtown to 50%. Conceptual designs for Low-Impact Development measures were also provided for five locations.
